

DECIDE AGAINST PUBLIC HEARINGS

Senate Committee Will Allow Interested Persons to File Briefs

DEBATE OPENS TODAY

Democratic Leader Underwood
Hopes to Limit General Argument in House to Five Days

CURRENCY REFORM TAKEN UP

WASHINGTON, APRIL 22.—By a strict party vote the senate finance committee today decided finally that no public hearings will be given upon the tariff bill when it reaches the senate.

Interested persons will be given a full opportunity, however, to file briefs or statements with the committee bearing on any of the tariff schedules.

Expected to Shorten Time.

The decision is expected to materially shorten the time that will be consumed in getting the tariff bill before the senate for consideration. Tariff debate opens in the house at 11 o'clock tomorrow and in the hope that general debate can be limited to five days, Democratic Leader Underwood will attempt to hold the house to twelve hours of continuous work daily. Another week of consideration under the rule permitting amendments will send the bill to the senate soon after May 5, it is believed.

The tariff bill came back to the house today from the ways and means committee with a vigorous supporting report from the Democrats of the committee and an opposing report from the Republican members.

The general debate that begins tomorrow will be followed by concerted efforts on the part of the Republicans in the house to amend the bill in all its important schedules.

To Confer With Democratic Senators
While the senate finance committee has decided to further hearings are unnecessary to Democratic members of the committee will confer tomorrow with Democratic senators from Pacific coast and Rocky Mountain states, who are opposed to the free sugar and free wool provisions of the new bill. A number of western senators, including Senators Myers of Montana and Ashurst of Arizona, will not participate in the conference as they have decided to support the free wool and sugar program if it is approved by the house.

The conference tomorrow will demonstrate the strength against these features of the bill. Those who will participate, insist, however, that there has been no effort to form an offensive alliance against the measure, as proof of which they point to the fact that the Louisiana senators and others interested in a change of the free sugar and free wool provisions have not been included in the conference.

Take Up Currency Legislation.
Currency reform legislation was taken up for the first time today by the full senate committee on banking and currency. As the result of a short session in which plans for a financial bill were not discussed in detail it is believed that unless President Wilson should insist there will be no final action upon currency legislation at the present session of congress. Arrangements will be made for a short series of hearings before the senate committee to begin within a few weeks. Details of the plan of reform that is to be presented with the endorsement of President Wilson are now being worked out, but opinions expressed at the committee meeting today indicated that Democratic leaders probably will not attempt to press financial legislation to its final stages before the December session.

SEVEN BUILDINGS BURNED.
Decatur, Ill., April 22.—Seven buildings valued at $10,000 were destroyed in a fire in Warrensburg, a village 12 miles northeast of Decatur, which started in a bakery shop at 11:30 o'clock Tuesday night. Total loss will be little more than $10,000. No lives were lost. Two crews of firemen were sent to the relief of the village from Decatur and had the fire under control before 1 o'clock.

RATIONS ISSUED FOR FLOOD SUFFERERS.
Vicksburg, Miss., April 22.—One hundred thousand rations were issued today by Captain W. B. Baker, U. S. A., for approximately 10,000 persons were it is believed will suffer at various points north of here as a result of the Woodlawn crevasse in the Mississippi river levee. Immediate relief is being given with rations in the steamer Nankonis at the scene of the crevasse.

WILL BRING COPPES TO IMMEDIATE TRIAL

JUDGE ORDERS GRAND JURY TO MEET TO HEAR CASE

Boy's Father Retains Counsel and Will Fight Against Death Penalty
—Coppes Breaks Down Before Parents.

ELGIN, APRIL 22.—Herman Coppes, the boy's father, and his wife, Maude Sleep and her two babies, will be brought to immediate trial. Circuit Judge Mazzini Stusser today ordered the grand jury to meet specially on Tuesday to hear the case. The boy's parents visited him today in the Geneva county jail. His father retained counsel and announced that he would fight against a death penalty for the fourteen year old murderer.

Breaks Down First Time.

Coppes broke down for the first time when he saw his father and mother in his cell. He wept for a time, but soon regained his bravado and repeated in detail his story of the triple killing. The recital did not vary from others he had made. Three indictments against Coppes are being prepared by State's Attorney William Tyers separately covering the killing of each victim, for presentation to the grand jury Tuesday.

Reply to counsel of the St. Charles school for boys for the parole of such boys as Coppes was made today by Colonel Adams, superintendent of the school.

"We should have more parole officers," he said. "A sufficient number of parole officers would watch the boys, keep them in check and prevent any such tragedy as the Sleep murder."

"Coppes is not a sample of the St. Charles boys," he said. "I trust no one will judge the other members of the school by this boy. He is a case by himself."

School Bar State Wards.
School directors of East Plano, today ordered that no more state wards be admitted as students.

Detective Edward Held said today that the three murders were committed and the bodies put in the cistern inside of eight minutes.

"From the time Herman got home until Ida followed him it was eighteen minutes," he said. "The boy had been in the barn ten minutes when Ida arrived."

Held said the boy was not responsible for his acts. "There was no motive for the murder," he said. "The boy is a degenerate and should never have been given his liberty. There was no cause for the murder outside of his malformed brain."

STRIKE OF PITTSBURG SCHOOL CHILDREN SPREADS RAPIDLY

Hundreds Remain Away From School as Protest Against Superintendent Who Was Recently Acquitted of Serious Charge.

Pittsburg, April 22.—The strike of school children against S. L. Heeter as superintendent of public school system spread rapidly today. Beginning yesterday when hundreds of children remained away from school as a protest against Heeter, who last Friday was acquitted by a jury of two serious charges preferred by a domestic employed at his home, the strike gained great proportions today. In all parts of the city, thousands of school children paraded the streets, tying up traffic at a number of busy points and necessitating the calling out of police reserves to maintain order.

One little girl was run over and killed by a street car during the excitement occasioned by one of the parades.

Banners of all descriptions, some of them inflammatory, are in evidence all over the city. At a number of points during the day, Supt. Heeter was burned in effigy.

Late in the afternoon when the demonstrations of children had ceased, the Pittsburg board of education held a meeting at which a committee of seven prominent men was asked to investigate the alleged various charges of immorality against Supt. Heeter.

TWO BURN IN FIRE.

Grafton, N. D., April 22.—The body of C. J. Mulligan, a farmer, whose home was three miles from Rensel, this county, was found today in the ruins of his home which burned this morning. A man whom Mulligan engaged last night to work on his farm also was missing, but late this afternoon his body was found in the ashes of the burned building. The two men were the only occupants of the Mulligan home. The body of the man has not been identified.

tion Proclamation in 1915.

SPRINGFIELD, ILL., APRIL 22.—Bills were introduced in the senate today making voting at both regular and primary election compulsory. A fine of not less than $10 for failure is provided in each case. Another bill appropriates $50,000 for a celebration in 1915 of the fiftieth anniversary of the issuing of the emancipation proclamation and creating a commission of nine to arrange for the celebration.

A bill giving veterans of the Spanish-American war of the Philippines insurrection the same preference in state civil service employment that they have under the federal civil service act was advanced to second reading.

A younger daughter, Marie, who was arrested at the city hospital for investigation in connection with the finding of the bodies, told of the deaths of her mother and sister, and said that she immured them in the basement of the house because they had a feeling against burial in a cemetery.

Sister Died Feb. 10, 1912.
According to the story told by Marie who is 49 years old, the sister died on February 10th, 1912, and the mother died nine months later. If this be true during the hot weather of last summer, the body of the mother lay in the house and according to the story of the surviving daughter, was encased in a showcase, the cracks of which had been sealed with plaster of Paris.

The bodies when found were so disintegrated that identification was difficult. From the neck of each was suspended a crucifix. At the feet of each was a porcelain urn of the kind sometimes used to hold holy oil. The graves were decorated with two small cedar trees, a wire cross and a muller shell.

Marie Kommichu, who was taken to the hospital two weeks ago after she broke a leg in a fall down stairs, was arrested this afternoon soon after the bodies were found. She requested the police not to remove the bodies from the house.

Detects Peculiar Odor.
The investigation of the premises that resulted in the finding of the bodies was made after neighbors had told the police that they suspected something wrong and after Mrs. A. L. Stuhler, owner of the premises, had son, Alphons, to inspect the property and had detected a peculiar odor in the basement.

When the detectives reached the house, they were directed by Mrs. Stuhler and her son to a small alcove, which had aroused their suspicion by being concreted. The rest of the basement was not concreted. The detectives broke off a piece of the concrete and found protruding the feet of a woman. They soon uncovered the two bodies. Under the corpses was a layer of quick lime.

Tells Conflicting Stories.
The sister, Marie, had aroused the suspicion of the neighbors by her conflicting stories regarding the disappearance of her mother and sister. To some she said that the sister had died and that the mother had taken her to Illinois, to others she said that it was the mother who had died and that the sister had taken the body to Illinois.

The story of the deaths and burial of the mother and sister was told at the city hospital today by Marie. Mrs. Stuhler this afternoon told of an estrangement between Marie and Selma, the dead sister, the result of a quarrel over money matters. It is said.

ST. LOUIS, APRIL 22.—The bodies of Mrs. Ernestine Kommichu, 79 years old and of her 59 year old daughter, Selma, were found under a concrete slab in the basement of their home No. 2412 South Broadway today.

A younger daughter, Marie, who was arrested at the city hospital for investigation in connection with the finding of the bodies, told of the deaths of her mother and sister, and said that she immured them in the basement of the house because they had a feeling against burial in a cemetery.

WILL HOLD BODY FOR CORONER'S INQUEST

CORONER HALTS SERVICES SET FOR TUESDAY AFTERNOON

After investigation Springfield Young Woman's Death is Declared to Have Been Caused By An Alleged Criminal Operation.

SPRINGFIELD, ILL., APRIL 22.—Sensational developments are promised by Coroner Clarence Rhodes, of Sangamon county, as a result of an investigation into the death last Saturday of Mrs. Harry Mayhew, the young wife of a well known resident of Springfield. The words "accidental death" on the death certificate signed by Dr. J. C. Salvers, resulted in City Superintendent of Health Dr. G. T. Palmer, refusing to grant a burial permit.

The coroner was notified and an investigation, he says, shows that the young woman died as a result of an alleged criminal operation. The funeral was set for this afternoon and relatives had come from a distance to attend the obsequies when the coroner ordered the services halted and the body held until tomorrow.

According to Coroner Rhodes, the husband of the dead woman admitted that an operation had been performed on his wife a week before her death and that it was done with his knowledge and consent.

Following the investigation which was held in the coroner's office at the court house, Mayhew, it is said, threatened to hurl himself to the concrete pavement seventy-five feet below and was only restrained from so doing by persons in the room. The coroner's inquest is set for Friday.

GOVERNMENT ACCEPTS PROPOSED COMPROMISE

GREAT STRIKE FOR MANHOOD SUFFRAGE
FRAGE WILL BE CALLED OFF

Strike Has Made Sufficient Impression on Government as to Cause Belgian Cabinet to Accept Compromise Offered by Liberal Leader Masson.

BRUSSELS, APRIL 22.—Owing in great part to the advice of the king, the government today accepted the compromise proposed by the liberal leader, F. Masson, and the great strike for manhood suffrage, which accounts for the remarkable discipline maintained, the solidarity of those who joined in the movement and skillful organization is unique history will be called off Thursday. Only a week ago the Belgian premier, Charles de Broqueville, declared, "no government could yield to a strike of this nature. To yield would be to abdicate."

Nevertheless the strike seems to have made sufficient impression on the government to induce it to unbend from its uncompromising attitude far enough to insure the termination of a situation which has already cost the country many millions and is daily driving away from manufacturers customers they may never win back.

Cabinet Make Decision.
The decision to accept the compromise was reached yesterday by the cabinet and the premier announced in the chamber of deputies today that the government had made M. Masson's motion its own. The Socialists were escorted by an imposing cortege of strikers from the chamber. Later some of them delivered speeches. M. Vandervelde, the Socialist leader, summed up the situation thus:

"No doubt you are not enthusiastic. You expected us to hand you universal suffrage on a silver platter. You are furious because we could not do so. But there are people a good deal more furious than you—the band of fanatics who had to swallow DeBroqueville's declarations when in the midst of the strike he was obliged to speak out more clearly than he had ever done before and had to vote a liberal motion paving the way for a revision of the constitution."

"You have gained a victory, but it is not a question of victor or vanquished. The great fact is that the morrow will bring revision and justice."

It is stated tonight that an extra parliamentary committee will be appointed by the chamber and king to consider and report on the question of constitutional revision.

Will Terminate Strike.
The caucus after the session of the chamber decided to call a meeting of the general strike committee tomorrow which will convene a national congress of the Socialist Labor party, comprising 1399 representatives of all the unions Thursday. This congress is empowered to terminate the general strike.

There is undoubtedly much dissatisfaction among the rank and file of the strikers who feel that they must wait too long for the desired reform. But the leaders are unanimous in their wish to end the strike. M. Vandervelde, the general secretary of the strike, declared that it was a more complete victory than could be hoped for after only a week's strike.

The leaders also realize that it would be practically impossible to keep the men from resuming in the circumstances.

There is little doubt that by Monday the struggle will be ended except possibly in the case of the coal miners who now threaten to strike for higher wages. It is reported that the authority of a member of the cabinet that there will be a dissolution of the parliamentary in 1916 so as to give the new electoral system, which will be completed by that time, a clean start. This would be impossible otherwise as ordinarily the chamber is elected one-half at a time.

FORMER GOVERNOR HADLEY ATTACKS RECALL OF JUDGES

Forces Judges Giving Popular Decisions if They May Be Recalled
by Popular Vote.

Chicago, April 22.—"This is a government of lawyers and always has been," said former Governor Herbert S. Hadley of Missouri in a speech here tonight at the annual banquet of the alumni of Northwestern University Law school.

"The profession of law has been more influential than all others combined, and lawyers have been the dominant class," Mr. Hadley's speech was devoted largely to an attack on the recall of judges.

"If judges may be recalled by popular vote we would see judges giving popular decisions instead of judicial ones," he said. "Laws and procedure may be improved and this is constructive criticism. The recall is destructive and is a fallacy."

YAOUI INDIAN ON WAR PATH.
Empalme, Sonora, April 22.—A band of 200 Yaqui Indians have taken the warpath sixty miles below this point. They burned the station house and railway equipment at Oros. There was no fighting here to day. The federals are reported to be planting cannon preparatory to shelling the state camp near Empalme.

LAND OWNERSHIP POLICY MADE KNOWN

Gov. Johnson and Pres.
Wilson Exchange Telegrams On Subject

OUTLINE PROPOSED BILL

Leaders Favor Measure to Exclude From Ownership All
Aliens Ineligible as Citizens

GIST OF GOVERNOR'S REPLY

WASHINGTON, APRIL 22.—An exchange of telegrams between President Wilson and Governor Hiram Johnson of California expressing on the one hand an appeal that no anti-alien legislation discriminatory against Japanese be passed and on the other assurance from California that no violation of treaty obligations were contemplated, left the white house and official circles uncertain as to future developments.

Response Considered Friendly.
Governor Johnson's telegram of appeal was taken at the white house to be of a friendly and re-assuring nature. When it was pointed out to officials that notwithstanding assurance that no treaty obligations would be violated Governor Johnson had used in his telegram the language relating to "aliens ineligible to citizenship" in forecasting the kind of a bill that would be passed, there was no disposition to regard the assurance as oversteering the passage of the assembly bill containing that phraseology against which secretary Bryan in his first telegram to Governor Johnson had registered strong protest.

Later, however, news from Sacramento, indicating that the California governor and legislators were bent on passing a bill specially excluding from ownership of land all aliens ineligible to citizenship, resulted in a general air of uncertainty with the respect to the developments in Sacramento.

Might Bring Referendum.
In the event a bill is passed over the protest from Washington it has been suggested to the federal government that influential Democrats could bring about a referendum through which the people of California might vote on the merits of the proposal. As a last resort, however, a test case in the court is confidently expected by legal advisors of the government here to satisfactory clear up finally the entire question.

The president will discuss the situation fully tomorrow with the Democratic representatives in congress from California.

Substance of Governor's Message.
Governor Johnson, replying, said in part:

"I think I may assure you that it is the desire of the majority of members of the legislature to do nothing in the matter of alien land bills that will be embarrassing to our own government or offensive to any one. It is the desire of the legislators specifically the provide in any act that nothing therein shall be construed as affecting or impairing any rights covered by treaty, although from the legal standpoint this is deemed necessary. If any act be passed it will be general in character relating to those who are ineligible to citizenship and the language employed will be that which precedent sanctions in statutes which now exist on the subject."

Each member of the Aid of the M. Mrs. Louis Hess is suffering from a badly sprained foot when she fell while running Saturday, tearing the ligaments from the ankle in the accident. Their children also have the whooping cough.

Mrs. D. Vorhis and daughter, Miss Lea, are suffering with an attack of measles.

POULTRY ASSOCIATION HELD REGULAR MONTHLY SESSION

May Hold Annual Show in Connection With Farmers' Institute—
Want Poultry Speaker on Chautauqua Program.

A meeting of the Morgan County Poultry association was held Tuesday evening at the law office of William E. Thomson. A report was heard from the committee in charge of the banquet April 3, announcing a remainder of $17.25 after payment of all expenses. A vote of thanks was extended to the ladies of Centenary church for help with the banquet.

The local association cast its vote at this meeting for the officers of the state association. It voted also on the selection of permanent headquarters for the American Poultry association, recording its opinion in favor of Chicago. The national association has no headquarters at present other than the residence of the president or secretary.

A communication was read from Secretary Fritchey of the Chamber of Commerce suggesting the consolidation of the annual poultry show with the farmers' institute. This would involve the change of the date of the poultry show from the middle of January to the second week in December, when the institute is held. The matter was left in the hands of Secretary J. H. Rayhill with instructions to find out whether or not the change would be suitable to Judge Hyle who has already been engaged to take charge of the poultry exhibition. Following are some reasons brought forward by Secretary Fritchey for the merging of the two events:

1. The poultry show and the farmer's institute are logically associated with one another because the farmers as a class are the ones who are interested in the raising of poultry.

2. I understand the farmer's institute and the poultry show are not having the success which they should when held separately. Consequently, no great failure could possibly result from experimenting by holding the two together this year.

3. This combination of events would permit the raising of more money and pooling together for a larger fund to be used in advertising.

4. It would abolish the solicitation for funds for prizes, etc., each month or so and the merchants would give more liberally to one big event which would be extensively advertised and which would draw people from greater distances.

This combination of events would interest more people and would provide a much larger attendance at your annual poultry show.

6. You would get the benefit of not only the advertising which would be done by this association but the Chamber of Commerce would gladly co-operate with you and advertise it on a scale which your association could not afford to do.

A motion was made empowering President Reynolds, Secretary Rayhill and D. T. Heinlich to consult with the officers of the chautauqua with the view to arrange for a poultry speaker on the program. Plans were made for such a speaker last year, it will be remembered, but failed in carrying out. The next meeting of the association will be Tuesday, May 28.

MAY CONVERT WASTE SPACE
AT "Y" FOR DORMITORY PURPOSE

Plans Discussed at Last Meeting of Senior Bible Class of Association and Heartily Endorsed By Speakers.

The Senior Bible class of the Y. M. C. A. closed its year's work Tuesday night with a banquet of splendid menu, served by the ladies of the First Baptist church. Aside from the members, there were several visitors present, including the various ministers of the city. After the supper, brief addresses were made by Dr. G. H. Kopperl, J. H. Rayhill, Jr., Rev. Clyde Darsie, J. R. Watt, Frank Read and Rev. Walter E. Spoons. Earl Johnston and J. Rodgers spoke in behalf of the young men.

The class has been studying the lessons of the International Bible school and those who took the examination were Roy Hopper, Howard DePew, Louis Osborne, Everett Weeks, E. F. Johnston, Earl Johnston, Layton McGhee, Roy Wood, Thomas Yates, Arthur Updgraff. The papers will be graded at the school headquarters.

Address By President Read.

Rev. W. E. Spoons, vice-president of the board of directors, acted as chairman. President Read was called upon to speak of the dormitory plans for the association. He prefaced his remarks with the statement that the Y. M. C. A. was a many sided institution; that it existed to meet the wants and needs of every phase of human activity.

Speaks of Dormitory Proposition.

As to the dormitory proposition Mr. Read unfolded the plan the directors have been seriously considering. It is their earnest belief that the time is ripe for utilizing the waste space in the association building and converting it into dormitory rooms. At least twelve fine, well-lighted rooms can be made out of the available space on the second floor, not to speak of the space in the attic, where several more rooms could be built. The rental of these rooms would provide the association one source of income, which it is now losing. It is really the first step in the direction of a modest endowment. The sources of income at present are from membership fees and voluntary contributions by the citizens of our community. At least $800 to $1,000 a year could be secured from the rental of the dormitories.

Committee is Appointed.

Dr. Kopperl, J. H. Rayhill, Jr., and Secretary Watt also emphasized the desirability of utilizing the waste space and make it produce an income for the association. Rev. Mr. Dorgan endorsed the ideas set forth and called attention to the fact that there was a higher mission in having this improvement made. Heartily endorsement of the plan was given by others present, Rev. Clyde Darsie, Dr. Post, Rev. Mr. Houck, H. A. J. Rodgers, Louis Osborne and E. M. Johnston. A committee, of three young men of the Bible class was appointed to take up the proposition to raise a third of the amount necessary to carry out the dormitory idea and furnish the rooms, the directors promising to see that the balance is raised. Messrs. Rodgers, Osborne and Johnston were named on the committee.

A suggestion was made that the west room on the first floor be equipped with first-class pool and billiard tables. A prominent Jacksonville business man has already promised to get under the proposition and see to it that the association have one of the best outfits that money can secure.

Dog Laws of Richard II.

When Richard II. was king of England the keeping of greyhounds by servants, grooms and artificers led to trouble, for these sportsmen would go a-hunting in parks and warrens the while "Christian people be at church hearing divine service." This, it was thought, was not good for park, warren or the soul of the servant. Reforms were arranged. The law was laid down that neither layman with less than 40 shillings nor clerk with less than £10 should keep sporting dogs or engines of game destruction. And, further, the servant and laborer were ordered to have bows and arrows and to keep Sunday and holiday in using them and to "leave all playing at tennis and football and other importunate games."

"But for Napoleon," said the spool, "I, like the Arc de Triomphe, would never have existed." In Napoleon's time thread was only made of silk and of wool. After tremendous labor they at last made cotton thread. Cotton thread is the world's chief thread today.—Philadelphia Bulletin.

PIMPLES ALMOST COVERED FACE

Blackheads Also. Suffered Greatly. Red and Irritated. Unsightly. Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment and Face Was Cleared.

Atchison, Kan. — "For a number of years I suffered very greatly from skin eruptions. My face was very red and irritated, being almost covered with pimples and blackheads. The pimples were scattered over my face. There were a fine rash with the exception of a few large pimples on my forehead and chin. My face burned and looked red if exposed to either heat or cold. It was not only unsightly but very uncomfortable. I tried several remedies but couldn't get any relief. I was recommended to use Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment. I applied the Cuticura Ointment in the evening, leaving it for about five minutes, then washing it off with Cuticura Soap and hot water. I washed several times during the day. After about four months of this application, my face was cleared of the pimples. I still use the Cuticura Soap. I will be glad to recommend the Cuticura Remedies to anyone suffering from skin diseases." (Signed) Miss Elsie Nielson, Dec. 29, 1911.

THE CENTENARY OF DOUGLAS

One hundred years ago to-day, April 23, 1813, Stephen Arnold Douglas was born at Brandon, Vermont. When fifteen years of age he began to work as a cabinet maker but in 1832 turned his attention to the study of law and a year later came west, and to Jacksonville. After spending a short time here he went to Winchester where he taught school and practiced law in justice courts. A few months later he was admitted to the bar and returned to Jacksonville in 1834 to begin his career as an attorney. In 1835 he was elected prosecuting attorney of Morgan county, but soon resigned to enter the lower house of the Illinois legislature to which he had been elected. In 1840 he was appointed secretary of state and the year following was elected a judge of the supreme court. He was elected to congress in 1842, 44 and 46 and in the latter year was chosen United States Senator taking his seat in 1847 and being re-elected in 1853 and 1859. His last canvass was made memorable by his joint debates with Abraham Lincoln, whom he defeated before the legislature.

He was a candidate for the presidential nomination before the Democratic national conventions of 1852 and 1856. In 1860 after having failed of nomination for the presidency at Charleston, S. C., through the operation of the "two-thirds" rule, he received the nomination of the adjourned convention held at Baltimore six weeks later, though not until nearly all the delegates from the southern states had withdrawn, the seceding delegates afterward nominating John C. Breckinridge. Although defeated for the presidency by Lincoln, his old time antagonist, Douglas yielded a cordial support to the incoming administration in its attitude toward the seceded states, occupying a place of honor beside Mr. Lincoln on the portico of the capital during the inaugural ceremonies.

It is related of Douglas that when he came to Jacksonville as a resident he weighed just ninety pounds and his height was five feet, four inches. He was in truth, however, the "little giant," great in intellect, great in eloquence, great in character. Nothing gave a more certain stamp to the broadness of his spirit and to the depth and earnestness of his convictions, than his support of the policies of Lincoln. Had he been a man of petty nature and been unwilling to forget the past, the administration of Lincoln would have lost much of its strength and influence and the cause of secession and of slavery would have been given credence.

Stephen A. Douglas was a patriot who placed his country far above selfish ambition. His name shines brilliantly as an illustrious American and Jacksonville is honored by the fact that he was once a citizen here.

POLITICS AND POLITICIANS.

Raleigh, N. C., has adopted the commission plan of government. Harry St. George Tucker has withdrawn from the Virginia gubernatorial race.

Oregon has its first woman mayor, Miss Clara Munson of the town of Warrenton.

S. P. Brooks, president of Baylor University, is announced as a candidate for the seat of United States senator Culberson of Texas.

James Hamilton Lewis, the new United States senator from Illinois, was at one time a longshoreman in San Francisco.

Friends of United States Senator Culberson of Texas believe he will be appointed by President Wilson to the first vacancy on the United States supreme bench.

Philander C. Knox, Secretary of State in President Taft's cabinet is said to be a candidate for the United States senate to succeed Senator Penrose of Pennsylvania.

Ex-mayor George W. Guthrie, of Pittsburgh, who is chairman of the Pennsylvania Democratic State Committee, is said to be slated to succeed Senator Penrose of Pennsylvania.

Equal suffrage will prevail the whole length of the Pacific coast after June 21, when the bill giving women full suffrage in Alaska will come into effect.

J. L. Thurman of Ohio, grandson of Allen G. Thurman, who was the Democratic candidate for Vice President in 1888, is slated for the post of Collector for the Department of Commerce.

Present indications in Alabama are that Representatives Underwood, Clayton and Holston will engage in a three-cornered contest for the seat of United States Senator Johnston, whose term will expire in 1915.

Thomas J. Walsh, the successor of Joseph M. Dixon as United States senator from Montana, is regarded as one of the country's foremost experts on the subjects of irrigation and land laws.

Dr. Mary A. Walker, the only woman in the country who has the right by Congressional enactment to wear men's clothes, is an applicant for the position of United States Commissioner of Pensions.

Leading merchants of Boston are said to have approached George von L. Meyer, who has been American ambassador to Italy and Russia, and have asked him to allow the use of his name as a candidate for the Republican nomination for governor of Massachusetts next fall.

The Constitutional amendment providing for the direct election of United States senators is expected to have its first try-out in Georgia. Senator Bacon of that State was re-nominated at a direct primary last year and would have been re-elected by the legislature next June. The change in the Constitution will force the calling of a general election when the legislature assembles, and Senator Bacon's name will be submitted to the people for direct approval.

PRESENT COMPLETED TARIFF BILL IN HOUSE

DEMOCRATS RECOMMEND RADICAL RE-ADJUSTMENT OF FISCAL POLICY.

Propose to Make Income Tax Means of Accurately Adjusting Funds to be Raised by Taxation to Meet Government Necessities.

Washington, April 22.—Presenting the completed democratic tariff revision bill to the house today the Democrats of the ways and means committee recommended a radical readjustment of the entire fiscal policy of the nation. They proposed to make an income tax the means of accurately adjusting the funds to be raised by taxation to correspond with necessities for government expenditures.

The report, submitted by Chairman Underwood, after outlining the operations of the proposed income tax, said:

"The revenues from all income taxes readily respond to changes of rates and the latter can be raised or lowered within a few days time without business disturbances such as general tariff changes occasion. It is believed that a budget or other effective system by which congress may be able closely to calculate and determine in advance forthcoming expenditures will soon be devised, in which the event it should become easy to maintain a close balance between expenditures and revenues such as it practiced in most other civilized countries."

"With other sources of revenue revised to honest and fixed basis, and the income tax a permanent part of our revenue system and at all times affording a substantial amount of revenue, congress could, and if necessary, should annually raise or lower the income tax rates in such manner as would prevent either a deficit or a surplus in the treasury. This combined tax system would afford justice in taxation, flexibility and stability of revenue, and rigid economy in expenditures."

Disregard Production Cost.
The democrats, outlining their policy in the preparation of the bill, announced an absolute disregard for the cost-of-production theory as regulatory of tariff rates, and declared that in the pending bill they had attempted:

"To eliminate protection of profits and to cut off duties which enabled industrial managers to exact a bonus for which no equivalent is rendered."

"To introduce in every line of industry a competitive tariff basis providing for a substantial amount of importation to the end that no concern shall be able to feel that it has a monopoly of the home market gained other than through the fact that it is able to furnish better goods at lower prices than others."

"Which is the wiser course for our government to take," the report asked, "the one that demands the protection of profits, the continued policy of hot house growth of our industries—the stagnation of development that follows where competition ceases, or on the other hand, the reduction of our tariff laws to a basis where the American manufacturer must meet honest competition, where he must develop his business along the best and most economical lines; where, when he fights at home to control his market, he is forging the way in the development of his business to extend his trade in the markets of the world. In our judgment the future growth of our great industries lies beyond the seas."

Detailed Table Presented.
A detailed table was presented showing, by schedules, the total revenue secured under the Payne law for 1912, and the estimated revenue under the new law for a twelve month period. The table showed that in 1912, $759,209,915 worth of imports paid $304,597,035 in duties at an equivalent average ad valorem rate of 40.12 per cent. It estimated that under the new bill $1,000,999,000 worth of imports would pay $266,701,000 in duties at an average ad valorem rate of 29.60 per cent. The new bill would raise $37,896,000 less than the present law.

"The saving thus made in revenue collections," said the report, "is only suggestive of the immensely greater saving secured to the public by the probable change in prices resulting from the removal of the excessive rates of the present law."

"It is a striking fact," the report declared, "that during the years subsequent to the renewal of the policy of high protection in 1897, there has been a radical transformation of American economic life in many directions and that in most a connection between the rates of protection and the development of unfair or objectionable conditions had been fully established."

Increased Cost of Living.

"The increased cost of living was mentioned as the most striking economic change needing adjustment through the tariff and a table was submitted showing the percentage of increase in wholesale price of many articles in the period from 1897 to 1910. The table gave the percentage of increase; since 1897 to 1910 in farm products as 93.2 per cent; food 46.7 per cent; clothing, 35.8; metals and implements, 48.2; drugs and chemicals, 23.9; house, furnishing goods, 24.2; miscellaneous, 44.5, an average increase in such commodities of 46.7 per cent."

In close conjunction with the high cost of living, the report suggested the development of trusts and industrial combinations during the same period, and gave a list of 226 such combinations organized since 1897, controlling thousands of plants and with aggregate capital of many billions. It also referred to the rapid exhaustion of natural resources, and said "that the protective system has been greatly influential in maintaining a too rapid rate of depletion of natural resources in order to satisfy the constantly increasing demands of a rising population is an unmistakable fact."

Discuss Democratic Theory.

Discussing the Democratic theory of tariff revision, the report declared for the establishment of duties designed primarily to produce revenue without thought of protection and for the attainment of this end by legislation that would not injure or destroy legitimate industry. In this connection the report said:

"To protect profits, of necessary means to protect inefficiency. It does not stimulate industry because a manufacturer, standing behind a tariff wall that is protecting his profits, is not driven to develop his business along the lines of greatest efficiency and greatest economy. This is clearly illustrated in a comparison of the wool and iron and steel industries. Wool has had a specific duty that when worked out to an ad valorem basis amounted to a tax of nearly ninety per cent of the average value of all woolen goods imported into the United States and the duties imposed have remained practically unchanged for forty years. During that time the wool industry has made comparatively little progress in cheapening the cost of its products and improving its business methods."

"On the other hand, in the iron and steel industries, the tariff rate has been cut every time a tariff bill has been written. Yet the iron and steel industry has not languished. In a series of tables the report that the articles, dutiable under the Payne law, and placed on the free list by the Underwood bill, in the last year yielded a revenue of $24,698,226 on imports of $102,402,579. The committee took from the present free list and levied duties against articles which estimated yields of $4,647,055 revenue on $12,595,510 during a twelve month period under the Underwood bill.

Government Revenues.

A computation by treasury experts presented in the report shows that the government revenue, from all sources in 1912, was $938,522,482 and of the government expenditures $901,297,979, leaving a surplus of $37,224,503. The estimated revenue from all sources for the first year under the Underwood bill is $926,000,000 and the estimated expenditures $894,796,000. With a treasury surplus of $1,225,000 this would leave a deficit of $68,790,000. The earning power of the income the first year of its operation is fixed by the report at $70,125,000.

In its estimate of the amount to be raised by the income tax the committee presents a table showing that 126,000 incomes between $4,000 and $5,000 will pay $630,000 tax; 170,000 incomes between $5,000 and $10,000 will pay $5,340,000; 53,000 incomes between $10,000 and $15,000 will pay $4,240,000; 24,500 incomes between $15,000 and $20,000, will pay $3,185,000; 10,500 incomes between $20,000 and $25,000 will pay $2,000,000; 21,000 incomes between $25,000 and $50,000 will pay $9,664,000; 8,500 incomes between $50,000 and $100,000 will pay $11,500,000; 25,000 incomes between $100,000 and $250,000 will pay $11,654,000; 550 incomes between $250,000 and $500,000 will pay $6,742,000; and 350 incomes between $500,000 and $1,000,000 will pay $9,191,000; and 100 incomes of over $1,000,000 will pay $5,826,000; a total of 425,000 incomes to be taxed $70,125,000.

The report says that the income tax is included "in response to the general demand for justice in taxation and the long standing need of an elastic and productive system of revenue."

In connection with our legislation work of re-adjusting the old and adopting a new fiscal policy," the report continues, "congress should eliminate the inequalities and abuses of the existing system of tariff taxation, reduce the customs rates to a sound revenue basis, and levy an income tax to equalize the tariff burdens and to give elasticity and productiveness to our revenue system."

Citizens Present System.

The report characterizes the present tariff system as "fluctuating, inflexible, unstable and often times unproductive, thus exposing the government to deficiencies or excess with all their attendant embarrassments."

The report declared the maximum and minimum clause of the Payne law, giving the president the power to impose additional duties on the goods of countries declining to include the United States as "a most favored nation" in commercial adjustments has been a failure. The new bill strikes that provision from the law, and gives the president the power to negotiate trade agreements containing "mutual concessions with foreign countries, to be approved by congress."

WOMEN BURY "CENTURY" CHEST

Oklahoma City, Okla., April 22.—A "century" chest, not to be opened for one hundred years, was buried here today as a feature of the Oklahoma natal day celebration. The Ladies' Aid society of the First English Lutheran church originated the idea. The chest was buried in a vault beneath the church and is to remain there until April 20, 2013. In the chest were placed many of the common things of today for comparison with things one hundred years hence. Among them were articles of women's dress, man's apparel, copies of the present laws, and a message of greeting to the descendants of the Cherokee and Chickasaw Indians, who were the original inhabitants of Oklahoma.

HARRY THAW

Pittsburgh, Pa., April 22.—Mrs. Copley Haw, whose marriage to Geoffrey G. Whitney of Boston took place today at Cumberland Island, Ga., is the daughter of Mrs. William Thaw of this city and a sister of Harry K. Thaw. In 1903 she was married to the Earl of Yarmouth, from whom she was divorced five years later. The wedding took place in this city and was marked by some stirring incidents. Among them was the fact that after the bridal party had gathered in the magnificent Calvary Episcopal church and the officiating rector was ready to perform the ceremony there was a long delay, this being caused by the ultimatum of the earl that before he would allow the ceremony to begin he must receive $1,000,000 of the Thaw fortune. Finally the attorneys were called in and made an arrangement satisfactory to the principals. With the divorce in 1908 the earl lost his financial interest in the marriage settlement. Since divorced he has become the Marquis of Hertford.

JEWISH PEOPLE

OBSERVE PASSOVER

New York, April 22.—The celebration of the Hebrew Feast of Pesach, or the Passover, was begun at sunset last evening by the Jewish people throughout the world. The celebration continues for eight days, though only the first two days and the last two are of special import to the Orthodox Jews, while with those who have accepted the modern, or reform dispensation, the first and the last day are the only ones observed.

The Passover, which is also known as the Feast of the Unleavened Bread, was instituted to commemorate the departure of the children of Israel from Egypt, under the leadership of Moses, where they had been held in bondage for upward of 400 years. There are many ancient customs observed by the Jewish people in connection with the passover. The chief feature of the celebration, however, is the substitution of matzos, or unleavened cakes, prepared for the purpose, for bread in the household of the Orthodox Jews.

THE PEOPLE ALL

In Charles Criss, Give Us Newbro's Herpicide.

This world of ours has been in every one's mind, and many are wondering what the word signifies, though no one has yet been found, who will deny that NEWBRO'S HERPICIDE does the work. Well, for the information of thousands of people who like to know all about a good thing, we would say that HERPICIDE means a destroyer or killer of "Herpes." New "Herpes" is the family name of a disease caused by various vegetable parasites. A similar microbe causes dandruff, itching scalp, and falling hair; this is the microbe that NEWBRO'S HERPICIDE promptly destroys; after which the hair grows. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

ATTENDS PLAY AT JAPANESE THEATRE

TOURIST GIVES GRAPHIC DESCRIPTION OF SHOWS.

Compares Imperial Theatre of Tokyo With Playhouses of New York and Chicago—Plays Lasted Over Five Hours.

Tokyo, Japan, March, 1913.

Dear Journal: I have been to a Japanese theatre and surely in all my life never got so much of that kind for 35 cents. It was the Imperial theatre and the building will compare favorably without and within with the better class of play houses in Chicago and New York.

The interior is arranged somewhat differently though and the boxes are conspicuous and not very large.

Prices are not great for our country, but for this they are the top, for this is a first-class establishment. The boxes rent for $1.25 an evening, then they have what they call the stalls and dress circles, which are also places partitioned off and at the same prices as boxes. The stalls are chairs, which correspond to dress circle and then comes the balcony, which is called upper circle and instead of being furnished with chairs it has a seat running around each step and there are four of them. The price a ticket here is 35 cents and the seats are good and command a fine view of the stage. The gallery is above and costs 15 cents each.

The decorations of the place are good and especially did we note some pigeons at the sides of the proscenium opening which were especially praiseworthy. The interior of the building is almost a maze and it supplies so much, but all is kept very clean and all is wholesome and inviting. The walls and corridors, the foyer and all are well embellished and present an attractive appearance. The stage is about fifty or sixty feet wide and has a number of fairly good drop curtains.

As we entered we saw on the floor of the foyer a series of gratings and between them rapidly moving affairs which looked like hair ropes and were for cleaning the soles of the shoes. Many girls are employed as attendants in general utility places and do their work well. In fact, whatever a Jap puts his hand to is pretty apt to be all right, for they are neat and accurate, though not so expeditious. On the way to the seats he guide had an altercation with an usher and he told us afterward the young chap wanted us to move our shoes, but finally agreed to be convinced that we had most carefully cleaned them so that they would not soil the floors and immaculate matting on which we trod. Our seats were in the upper circle, which corresponds to the balcony at home and in front of us was a row of thin cushions, on which native Japs crouched tailor fashion, as was their wont, preferring that method to the civilized seats back of them or perhaps they got them cheaper than we got ours. We were amply supplied with program and those of the audience who needed them had a pamphlet in which was given a synopsis of the plays, of which there were four. We took our seats at five and the curtain went down the last time at ten thirty.

For a mingling of the grotesque, the ridiculous, the superb, the artistic, the barbaric, the elegant, the graceful, the ear-splitting, the fine, the spectacular, the absurd and the magnificent, the humorous and the pathetic, the comic and the tragic, all in one evening, this certainly took the lead. The curtain went up on the first act of the first play at 5 p. m. and went down at last at half past ten.

There were four plays all complete in themselves, though none were very long. Though the cast called for male and female characters which were there, the fact is the law forbids both sexes playing on a stage in a public theatre at once, all the parts were taken by men and we were unable to see that the parts suffered any and were told that at times all women take the parts and dress as men as the play requires.

The orchestra had an easy time, playing but little and there but few pieces in the whole list, but their music was good.

Between the second and third act an intermission of 25 minutes was allowed for refreshments and we wandered from one place to another inspecting the conveniences. There were various lunch counters and two large restaurants, one in Japanese style with rice, chop sticks and the like, the other a regular European or American enterprise, where we secured a respectable meal for 25 cents each and returned to our seats. In front of us and squatting on the floor were some native women with their hair done up in immaculate style, evidently requiring much time. Accidentally I brushed the back of one woman's head with my overcoat as I took it off and she was wroth. I regretted my inability to apologize, and had to do the best I could by signs.

The orchestra filed in and gave a short number and filed out again and we saw but little more of them during the evening.

The first part of the evening bill was a drama, "Shida Mitsunari," by Chio Yagi. It is a historical production and highly sensational. An emperor dies and leaves the government in the hands of five noblemen to carry it on till the son and heir reaches his majority. One of the five proved a traitor and tried to usurp the power to himself and is opposed by Mitsunari, who loyally stood by his young sovereign and gave the traitor battle, but he was deserted by many of his followers and obliged to flee for his life. He takes refuge in a cave and is aided by a friend whom he once befriended, but a great many others come into the plot, a villain, villagers, farmers, officers, and a woman who is a friend to the escaping nobleman, and feeds him in the cave. He is discovered and the woman commits suicide, the unfortunate officer who was loyal to his master is captured and led or carried away in a palanquin to execution. This is a rather unusual ending for a play according to our ideas, but it furnished an opportunity for some fine acting.

The stage setting in the first act was very good, the scene being at the foot of a mountain and the scenery was excellent. A number of actual trees supported by boxes hidden by imitation sod were placed or disposed about the stage, making a realistic effect. The second scene was a trifle incongruous, representing a Japanese home, but instead of making the stage setting accordingly the trees and all were left out and a little stage and a fence went about it and part way down the front, where it abruptly ended. It was a fine opportunity though to see actual Japanese life. The daily tasks were performed, the beds taken out and replaced and in general the daily duties of a native household were depicted.

The last scene was a cave, or rather the entrance to one, and it was very elaborate. A dreadful incongruity was the nice carpet left uncovered on the stage so that it mingled inharmoniously with rocks, bushes and the like, while the poor officers, instead of being in the cave hiding as he should, was at the entrance and was so weak he was unable to get away. The work of the actors was good and they worked up to the tragic parts all right except the suicide, which was rather tame.

The next piece was certainly some of the best pantomime I ever saw in all my life, though there were some features in the performance that were out of place. A bridge is infested with a demon and the king tells his generalissimo to slay the monster. The official assigns the task to one of his officers, who repairs to the designated spot. The demon is aware of the plot and assumes the character of a lovely maiden and deceives her would be destroyer and executes the gisha dance in fine shape. She is superbly dressed and grace itself. How in the world a man could so well imitate the motions of a beautiful, supple, well-trained maiden was a mystery. The official is, of course, pleased with the wonderfully fine performances of the maiden. She has a large mantilla which she wonderfully waves about and swings in the air, now concealing her features entirely as she sways about the stage, now whirling it on high and now wrapping in lovely folds about her body. She smiles mostly sweetly and all in all it was one of the best things of its kind I ever saw. This was kept up for some time, but the wily officers watched her closely and failed to be deceived.

On the other hand there were some incongruities. The scenery of the stage was good, but the bridge was a joke. They laid on a small part of the stage a piece of canvas with water painted on it and on that was a miniature bridge about twelve or fifteen feet long and a foot high in the middle and the whole thing stood off by itself with no connection, no attempt at a stream or road.

Then there was some music. Would that the shades of Mozart, Liszt or some of the great ones gone by might return and see how much they had missed. On one corner of the stage was a platform about twelve feet long, three feet wide and four high and on it were placed five or six musicians. All but one were supplied with a kind of twanging guitar with three strings and which made but two notes. Then at the end sat a man with a huge book of music before him intoning the history of the piece as the performers acted it out. Imagine a perpetual strain from a cote bagpipe varying slightly in the scale and you have it.

The maiden danced, the officer watched her, the musician (?) sang and played and the play went on. It was truly bewildering and for a while it looked as if the maiden would conquer, but finally the old warrior gave her to understand that he understood her game and she vanished with a drop hid the stage from view and the theatre was darkened for a few minutes and when it was lighted the scene was simply bewildering and one of the best I ever saw. Remarkably realistic clouds floated in the background, moon and stars appeared, lightning flashed and if they had only known how to produce imitation thunder it would have been well night perfect, but as it was they seemed to pound the stage floor with boards, which made a rather sickly imitation of the real article.

The lovely maiden was changed into a monster, with heavy, bushy hair fully twelve feet long and the way he could swing it and dance about was a fright. The light was low and the whole stage was peopled with ghostly spirits admirably arranged, clouds floated all about, weird lights intensified the effect, the entire space seemed peopled with ghostly, superb natural beings and the whole thing was fine and immense.

The demon and the soldier fight and the conflict is terrible and I suppose the vocalist was telling a wonderful tale as he intoned in sounds indicating a bad case of influenza. The demon swung his awful head and his long hair waved in the air aloft and the effect was frightful and very realistic. At last he seems to overpower the soldier and taking him up bodily floats away into space in the clouds in an astonishing manner. The man struggles seemingly in vain till at last, as he is almost beyond the upper clouds he summons all his strength and with his sword severs the arm of the demon which binds him and falls to the roof of a house, while the demon escapes into the air with a devilish groan.

It was a hair raising performance and gave wonderful satisfaction to the whole house, though the Japanese are rather economical with their applause, never seeming to appreciate a real good article of tragedy, though they did pay good attention.

The next play was a tragedy, but somehow the actors managed to make a great deal of fun for the audience, as much of the dialogue excited repeated laughs, but as we were ignorant of the language we were unable to see the point to the jokes. In short, a man becomes infatuated with an innocent maiden and accomplishes her ruin, though he is already married. His stepmother takes advantage of the affair to seek to have him disinherited and his wife agrees to forgive him if he will try to do better in the future. The maiden, however, refuses to live, saying she prefers death to disgrace, and writes the man a letter, telling her intention to throw herself into the river and end her life and with bitter remorse in his heart he hastens after her to join her in the rash act.

Just how there could be any fun made out of such a story I could not see, but probably they introduced some humorous characters and so accomplished it. The stage setting was good in this piece, only it looked strange to see the little house set bodily on the stage again with its piece of fence and gate so frail that it fell down when it was opened. Everything went off very well in this part and the actors were frequently greeted with applause and much laughter.

The last piece was more pantomime which was even better, if possible, than the first one, only it was not nearly as elaborate and was principally dancing by the gisha girls. The plot was simple. Two lovely maidens had been deserted by their lovers and were hot on the tracks of the treacherous youths, who well knew that "Hell hath no fury like a woman scorned."

The young scamps decide to hide in the temple in which no woman may set her foot, but the girls follow them to the temple doors most gorgeously attired and looking very fascinating. Of course they may not go in, but they perform their most fascinating dances on the outside. They are full dressed and their dancing was not at all like that exercise in our land. It consisted of a series of graceful movements, whirling and swinging, waving scarfs and all sorts of movements. They were most gorgeous head dresses which were removed by attendants during the performance. They also came out in red robes or kimonos and during the play, attendants appeared behind them, took off the dresses and blue ones showed instead.

The orchestra was especially arranged for this affair and the music was fierce. It consisted of a lot of the abominable three stringed instruments and a number of drums with very tight heads, which the performers struck with their hands. Some drums were about the size of a patent keg and some twice as large. The dancing by the gisha girls was superb and of its kind well nigh perfect and so different from anything I had ever seen before.

The girls plead in every way for admission to the temple, but in vain, but the priest finally consented to bring out the boys if the girls will do some more dancing, to which they agree, and the grave and reverend priests are so fascinated that they join the girls and a scene of wonderful merriment follows till the curtain goes down.

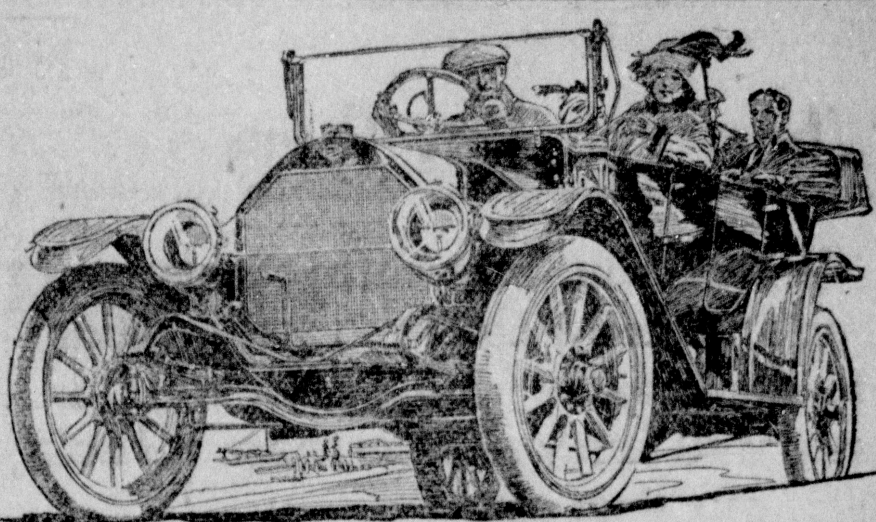

The evening was indeed well spent as far as strange and remarkable performances were concerned, though I should hardly care to go a second time. How men could so well take the parts of ladies was indeed remarkable and had we seen them show on the night when only ladies are in the cast we should have been equally mystified by their work.

FORTY prominent German Engineers, in an effort to find a weak spot, tore down an Overland that had run over 5,000 miles. They could not find one single flaw.

This exceptional value has always puzzled and astounded the world. But when you take into consideration the economy of building 40,000 cars a year you have the answer. The growing familiarity of 53 nations with the tremendous Overland manufacturing methods, caused Overland sales to increase by leaps and bounds. The market for the best production is unlimited.

Gas and Gasoline

OIL

Old-time Coal Range

Means

Less Fuel More Heat

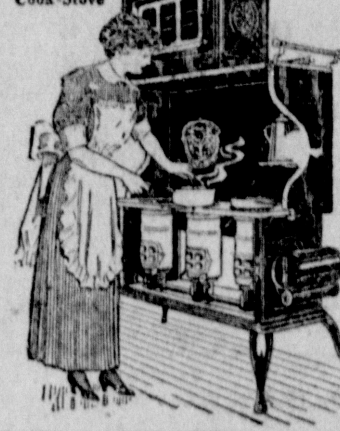

The coal range is a near approach to ideal heat distribution for cooking. But its heat in summer is killing.

Gas and gasoline keep down the kitchen's temperature. Still, their distribution of heat is wasteful. Too much goes out into the room.

No one wants a coal range. Besides the heat, there's ashes to contend with. And coal soot, dirt, draught and a dozen other things.

Gas and gasoline are cleaner. But not as efficient as the old coal range. Gas, gasoline and coal range—all lack something.

The New Perfection Wick Blue Flame Oil Cook-Stove is ideal in every respect. It burns oil. At two-thirds the cost of gas, and half the cost of gasoline.

New Perfection Wick Blue Flame Oil Cook-stove

The design of its burner is such that ALL the heat is concentrated upon the bottom of the cooking utensil. None of it escapes or goes to waste. Safe, sure and inexpensive. Ask your dealer for a demonstration of this wonderful stove and its many useful attachments. See how it broils, bakes, toasts and roasts better than any coal range.

"The Strength of Men"

In Two Parts

Written by James Oliver Curwood. SPECIAL RELEASE.

Virile, Vital and Vigorous. Marvelously Beautiful in Scenery, Pulsating with Powerful Situations.

Two young and husky prospectors, rivals for the love of a woman and the quest for gold, put their endurance to the test in reaching the goal of their ambitions, fighting their way through the overwhelming snows and forest fires of the Alaskan forests. To reach their aim, they race for miles in their canoes, through rapids and torrents. While making their way through the burning and falling trees, they struggle in hand-to-hand conflict until exhausted. Both are injured and agree to help each other to escape inevitable death. Their great strength is shown in their readiness to forgive and forget, and their willingness to let the girl make her own choice; the rejected one rejoicing in the happiness of the other.

MARKET LETTERS.

Chicago Markets.

Oliver S. Green, with Walter Bros., Union Stock Yards, Chicago, Ill., reports the receipts for Monday April 21st:

Cattle—18,000.
Hogs—41,000.
Sheep—20,000.

With a moderate run of cattle today, the market was strong and 10c higher, with an advance of 15c noted in some places, on stuff above the $8.50 kind. There was a smaller proportion of good fat cattle than noted one and two weeks ago today. There was a strong market for good yearlings. Good Nebraska and Iowa beef averaging 1330 to 1610 pounds at $9.25. But they were not as classy as the $9.25 cattle last week. There was a liberal number of sales at $9.00 to $9.05 and some at $9.10 and $9.15. Cattle below the $8.50 class were only strong to a shade higher. Good to choice butcher stock 10c to 15c higher. Canner steady. Bulls higher. Calves strong to higher. There was a short run of stockers and feeders and they sold strong to 10c higher. We quote prime steers, 1200 to 1700 pounds at $8.90 to $9.25. Choice steers, 1250 to 1500 pounds, $8.80 to $9.15. Choice steers 1100 to 1250 pounds, $8.80 to $9.00. Good to prime yearlings, $8.50 to $8.85, with fancy white faced yearlings at high as 9c. Medium to good yearlings, $8.10 to $8.85. Common to fair yearlings, $7.40 to $8.00. Good steers, 1100 to 1400 pounds, $8.35 to $8.60. Good steers, 900 to 1200 pounds, $8.00 to $8.50. Fair steers, 900 to 1200 pounds, $7.75 to $8.00. Medium steers, $5.00 to $5.50 pounds, $7.50 to $7.65. Inferior of same weight, $7.00 to $7.35. Common steers, 800 to 850 pounds, $7.50 to $8.00. Medium and fat cows, $5.15 to $8.00. Canners and cutters, $3.50 to $5.00. Heifers, $5.85 to $9.00. Bulls, $5.25 to $7.50, with a fancy yearling at $7.75. Inferior stockers to good feeders, $5.65 to $7.75. Choice, 900 to 1000 pounds, $7.85 to $8.00. Choice selected feeders, 900 to 1100 pounds, $8.00 to $8.25. Common heavy calves to good vealers, $4.75 to $8.25. Choice to prime vealers, $8.25 to $8.50.

Receipts of hogs were heavier than the trade looked for and the market opened 5c lower and closed dull and 10c lower, with 10,000 unsold. Select packing and shipping, $8.85 to $9.25. Light weights, $8.85 to $9.15. Heavy packing, $8.50 to $8.80. Rough heavy packing, $8.15 to $8.60. Medium and butchers, $9.00 to $9.05. Packing, $8.80 to $9.00. Pigs and throwouts, $2.00 to $3.40.

Sheep and lambs strong to 10c higher. Colorado Mexican woolled lambs reached $8.85. Colorado fed wool lambs, $7.00 to $8.85. Fed western clipped lambs, $6.00 to $7.75. Shorn native lambs, $6.00 to $7.00. Native wool ewes, $6.00 to $7.00. Shorn native ewes, $5.50 to $6.50. Fed western woolled yearling wethers, $7.00 to $7.75. Shorn yearling, $6.50 to $6.90.

Kansas City Market.

Kansas City Stock Yards, April 21.—Stock cattle and feeder prices changed very little last week, though trade was dull at the close of the week. Killing grades declined slightly last week. Shipments to country points from here last week footed in 4,700 head, as compared with 6,000 head same week last year. There was considerable inquiry for springers from various quarters. One South Dakota buyer took five car loads of bred cows to run on the range, which was as many as he could get. Stock steers were also popular and probably the least demand was for fleshy feeding steers. Fancy stock steers sold up to $8.50 and best feeders brought $8.35. A year ago lots sold at $7.10 and $7.75 respectively. Receipts here today 11,000 cattle, market steady to 10c higher on killing kinds, and about steady on stock cattle and feeders. A choice drove of stockers was held at $8.35 today, finally selling slightly under that figure. A string of ten cars of desirable stock steers weighing around 700 pounds, so thin that they might have weighed 800 pounds and still have been stockers, sold at $7.75, considered cheap for anyone wanting frame rather than flesh. The proportion of stock cattle included in receipts today is larger than usual, but there is a good demand for them. "Do not mention the fact that I bought a car load of 175 pound stockers at $7.65," W. E. Hoag of Cass county, Missouri, whispered. "I never thought I would come to this. Of course these cattle may turn out very profitable, which I hope they will, but that price frightens me every time I think of it. The fact of the matter is we have the grass and the feed and without cattle we would be losers anyway." Top fed steers here today brought $8.70; bulk of native steers, $7.90 to $8.50; Colorado steers, $7.75 to $8.40; quarantine steers, $7.25 to $8.15; native cows, $6.00 to $7.25; bulls, $6.50 to $7.25; veal calves, $8.00 to $9.50.

Big Opportunity to Profit on Increased Value of Government Irrigated Land

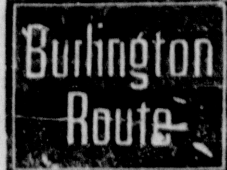

Time after time land in the great prosperous West has jumped from a nominal value to hundreds of dollars an acre when the first railroad tracks opened it up to the markets of the world. That is what is likely to happen to the Big Horn Basin of Wyoming.

Sell there, under proper irrigation has for years proven itself capable of making farmers rich with bountiful crops of fruit, alfalfa, grain, sugar beets, garden truck, etc. All it needed was an outlet to market. Now the railroad is about to put a line straight into the heart of this wealthy territory. Those who get in before the track is laid will reap the big profits.

You can now file on an 80-acre government irrigated homestead at no cost except the actual cost of the water right—and you are given twelve years to pay for that. Light payments the first five years. No taxes for three years. So you can get started with very little capital. The climate is mild and healthful; neighbors, towns, churches and schools nearby.

This is one of the best chances I ever saw in all my experience. Write and ask anything you may want to know about it, and I will send you full information, illustrated booklet, map, etc. My service is free. Send me a postal quick.

PAID TRIBUTE TO STEPHEN A. DOUGLAS

The following eulogy of Stephen A. Douglas, the centenary of whose birth, the people of Illinois are observing to day was printed in the Jacksonville Journal, Thursday, Jan. 16, 1862. It was delivered by Hon. Joseph A. Wright in the hall of representatives at Indianapolis. A copy of the paper is owned by Mrs. Thos. Worthington who has a valuable collection of letters and photographs relating to Douglas.

For several years the great principles of popular sovereignty, as applied to the territories, in connection with the repeal of what was called the Missouri Compromise, engrossed the earnest and faithful attention of Senator Douglas. His labors in maintaining and expounding these principles may be regarded as among the meritorious events of his laborious life. Time, the great arbiter, has on the ready settled these principles upon an enduring basis, which will perpetuate the memory of the wisdom and the patriotism of their eminent expounder.

The public mind is most wisely undergoing a great change upon these subjects. It is now manifest that the removal of the restriction was absolutely necessary for the free exercise of territorial legislation in subjects of Democratic policy, including African slavery. Men are now comprehending and realizing truths proclaimed by Judge Douglas, in his unanswerable and prophetic speech of March 3, 1854. Subsequent events have tended to demonstrate that the compromise measure of 1850 in their interpretation, revealed, in spirit and substance, the Missouri Compromise line. The almost unanimous vote of the south for the extension of this line in 1848 and 1850 to the Pacific with the violent opposition it met with in the north, bringing about its defeat, in connection with the misrepresentation and violence with which these subjects were discussed, produced a condition of popular feeling which culminated in the election of 1860—bringing into the national congress a large majority of northern sectional men. Yet, the prompt practical application, in this congress, of the doctrine which Mr. Douglas claimed, warrants that he lived to see the great principles which he had so long advocated, finally adopted by his country. His speech of 1854 was prophetic—proving the truth of the sentiment—"Great men are, in a certain sense, prophets. They precede their age to illumine its path."

It was my fortune to enter upon terms of personal acquaintance with Stephen A. Douglas, at the commencement of the first session of the 28th congress and to enjoy his friendship from that time until his death. Well do I remember his first effort in the house of representatives on the subject of refunding to General Jackson the fine assessed against him by Judge Hall at New Orleans. That venerable man, John Quincy Adams, sat in his seat, his looks and motions always indicative of the events of the passing hour. In the midst of the address the old man eloquent was seen to rise in his eyes with steady and fixed attention—watching every action, and listening to every word of the young western orator, and exclaiming, as Mr. Douglas took his seat "That young man will be felt in this nation."

He seldom indulged in anecdotes, or appealed to the passion of his audience. His sentences were sententious, and forcibly expressed—repeated less than those of any speaker of his age; and in his style, he was the most original man, in the use of language, since the days of Daniel Webster. As a speaker he was concise, rather than diffuse—using illustrations natural as life itself. His earnestness, vigor, countenance, attitude, and manner convincing all that he understood, believed and felt what he said. It was thought which moved his auditory; not his words. His great powers of reason were more apparent in a controversial debate than in a set speech; and, in off-hand passages at arms, he was particularly distinguished, and stood without a rival.

He was a man of action, energy and resources, with a commanding intellect, of original impressions, exhibiting in every position in which he was placed, abilities of the highest order, and most striking qualities. He possessed, in an eminent degree, the qualities of decision and firmness; but above all, he was blessed with an indomitable will—an iron nerve—and unbending integrity, which adversity could not move, nor misfortune conquer.

His public life is full of instances of courageous action and fearless independence. Having investigated a subject and formed his opinion, he had the will to carry it out, in steady defiance of all opposition. Arraigned by an Administration coming into power in the full tide of prosperity—charged with a want of fealty to his party—surrounded by a host of office holders, exclaiming, "He has gone over to the Republicans; he is a traitor! a Burr! an Arnold!"—deserted by false men whom he had nursed in political distinction, and high public station—assailed by the Partisan arrows of a host of enemies—deprived of the confidence and sympathy of the powerful political party with whom, upon a single question only he agreed—daily receiving the anathemas of a subsidized and corrupt press—yet threatened, maligned, deserted, betrayed, alone, he "spurned Executive smiles, when those smiles were invitations to crime; and with giant arm he struck the dust the slaves who sought to bind him with chains of Executive despotism. Standing almost alone in the Senate House he met the storm, and sustained the shock unmoved; and never laid down his arms until the foul monster, Leconte, lay dead and prostrate at his feet."

A characteristic compliment was paid to him, about the time of the contest for the office of Speaker on the opening of Congress, in December, 1859. It seems that a well known editor had commented, with some severity, on the course of a distinguished member of Congress, and charged him with making speeches, (some of which were to defend himself from the accusation of circulating the Helper Book) instead of proceeding with the business of electing a Speaker. The M. C. retorted upon the editor, and among other things, intimated that he had connived at the election of Judge Douglas to the Senate, from Illinois, in 1858. To this charge the editor replied, in substance—"I never agreed with Mr. Douglas upon any one subject but Leconte. But he has one thing about him, which I wish you, and many more of the Republican party, had. I call it pluck! If he had said that Tom Plaine's Age of Reason was a purer and better document than the Sermon of the Savior on the Mount, he would never have risen in his place to apologize for it; but said—make the most of it."

Public opinion has condemned the practice of candidates for the first office in the Union engaging in political discussions. But this practice is certainly as commendable as the custom of writing letters to the various portions of the country, or as a refusal to answer new and important questions touching the national integrity and stability. Who does not admire the independence and firmness of the man who, when he was asked, under a Virginia sun, on the eve of the contest of 1860, what his course would be, if Mr. Lincoln was elected, and a Southern State should secede? promptly replied—"I go for the enforcement of the laws of the Union. Whoever is President is bound by his oath to carry the laws into faithful execution; and it is the duty of every law-abiding man—I care not what may be his politics—to aid in the execution of the laws." Noble and patriotic sentiments! Fortunate it would have been for the country, if another aspirant could have been prevailed upon to give the same response to a similar inquiry.

Perhaps no effort of his life exhibits the true man, in his motives, feelings, and spirit, more clearly than his memorable speech, of March 22, 1858. In the most masterly manner he vindicated the principles of our government, and exposed the mockery of admitting the pretended State of Kansas, under the Leconte constitution—pressing upon a listening Senate argument after argument fact after fact, while surrounded by the multitudes who had besieged the doors, aisles, and windows, to witness the scene and herald the issue. So intense was the interest in speech and subject one well said—"The life of our American Democracy seems breathing in this Orator for constitutional interest." On this occasion, when he triumphantly passed through one of the many ordeals which tried and proved his fidelity to his country he alluded to some personal matters as follows:—"I make no defence of my democracy. I have no professions to make of my fidelity.—The insinuation that I am acting with the Republicans, has no terror, and will not drive me from my duty and propriety. My position is taken. I know not what its consequences will be to me. If I cannot remain in public life, holding firmly immovably, to the great principle of self-government and State equality, I shall go into private life, where I can preserve the respect of my own conscience, under the conviction that I have done my duty, and followed the principle wherever its logical consequences carried me."

Truly he was ambitious! Douglas died poor. He lived in an age remarkable for speculation, frauds and peculation, which seemed like epidemics, not only in the general, but in the State governments. Not confined to our country, but most of the governments of Europe have felt its withering blight. The country is familiar with the records of the frauds upon the English government, growing out of the Crimean war, as they have been exposed by the Press and Parliament of Great Britain. The war carried on by Austria, Italy and France, has developed some of the most gigantic schemes of speculation, amounting to millions. Scarcely a government or a city stands without a record exposing either indirect dishonest speculations, or open frauds.

I have said that Douglas died poor. In the great State which he served so long, and so faithfully, he did not own ground enough to serve him for a grave and his devoted and true-hearted wife gave up, for his place of burial, the small lot of two acres, which was all the land she owned. This noble and gifted woman was always true to the patriotic principles of her husband. The false glitter of the fashionable society of Washington could not tempt her to become one of its devotees; nor could the powerful treason that ruled high places at the national capital ever win her from her devotion of the Union. When delegates came to her, to ask her for her children, in order they might be removed to the South, to same their inheritance from confiscation, true to the dying injunction of her husband, she promptly and firmly refused to give up his children to the recipients of wealth, and to be educated under the care and patronage of traitors.

Will not the people of Illinois and Indiana—will not the people of the mighty and patriotic West—will not the people of the Union—provide a home and a heritage for the wife of Douglas, and for his children? I know they will. I have conversed with a committee who have the subject under their charge in Illinois. May not similar committees be organized in Indiana, and in other Western States? The family of Douglas must have a home in the West, where an enduring monument will be erected to his memory. Let the friends of the Union place on it the words—

STEPHEN A. DOUGLAS,
The Friend of the People, and the Defender of their Rights.
And let us the monument bear, and transmit to posterity, the words addressed by him to his countrymen, in this crisis:—

"There is but one path of duty left to all patriotic men. It is not a party question, nor a question involving partisan policy. It is a question of government or not government—country or no country."

And hastily inscribed on his monument, in unfading letters, that last, dying message to his absent orphan sons—

"Tell them to obey the laws, and support the Constitution of the United States."

Hadley of Yale university followed with an address on "The Relation of Science to Higher Education in America." Other speakers of the day and their topics included Prof. Arthur Schuster, secretary of the Royal Society, on "International Co-operation in Research," and Dr. George E. Kapteyn of the University of Groningen and Prof. Theodore Boveri of the University of Wurzburg.

MORE OUT-DOOR LIVING

And Death Rate Will be Lowered.

Statistics prove that the death rate is very much greater in the winter months than in summer, and that the lack of fresh air is largely responsible for this condition.

If the system becomes rundown, blood thin and watery, circulation poor, no appetite, don't dose with drugs, but take our delicious cod liver and iron tonic Vinol, not a patent medicine, as everything in it is named on every package and if it does not give you a hearty appetite, enrich the blood and create strength we will return your money; that shows our faith in Vinol.

A case has just come to our attention from Albany, N. Y. Mrs. H. Hartman says: "I was in a run-down condition for about five years until this spring, when I learned what a good tonic and strengthener Vinol is. It is certainly the best tonic I have ever used and it has done wonders for me."

IN THREE REELS

NOTRE DAME DE PARIS

NOTRE DAME DE PARIS

VICTOR HUGO'S masterpiece is the basis of this Pathe production in three reels, beautifully colored. None of the details of this immortal work have been disregarded, the film adhering absolutely to the text and to its original composition, with all its passionate display and its truly dramatic situations. The principal characters are: Captain Phoebus of the King's Guard, played by Robert Alexander, of the Comedie Francaise; Quasimodo, the old and deformed hunchback of Notre Dame Cathedral, played by Henry Krauss, of the Sarah Bernhardt Theatre; Esmeralda, the fair-haired arch-enemy of Notre Dame, portrayed by Claude Garry, of the Comedie Francaise; and Miss Esmeralda, of the Paris Opera, in a splendid costume, the superb beggar girl.

Esmeralda, dancing before Notre Dame, attracts the attention of Captain Phoebus, firing his heart with noble passion, and from that moment he disregards all conventions and resolves to be able in the path toward his desire. His ardent declaration of love produces an amazing emotion in the heart of the beggar girl. Esmeralda, who has been in love with Phoebus for years, carries Esmeralda off to her Cathedral. Quasimodo is furious to see Phoebus and Esmeralda together. He is determined to kill Phoebus, the accepted lover of the girl. The original is sent to the gallery, but his suffering there is eased by the intervention of Esmeralda, who realizes that he is the strongest and proudest man.

That evening, at the "Apple of Eve" ball, Esmeralda is the object of her mother's love, is discovered by Phoebus, who is in a uncontrollable anger, seizes the captain. The girl is accused of the murder. Phoebus proposes to clear her if she will consent to marry him, but the girl refuses the offer. She is brought before Notre Dame to the public square before she is turned over to the executioner. Through the willing aid of Esmeralda, the girl who has been in love with Phoebus for years, Esmeralda is saved from the guillotine and Esmeralda is saved from the guillotine.

Some time passes before Esmeralda returns to the Cathedral, but one day, while standing on the balcony, gazing longingly at the city beneath her, she is discovered by Phoebus. Esmeralda calls loudly to him. He summons the guard, and Esmeralda is taken captive. The next day, while Phoebus goes upon the execution scene being executed far below him, Quasimodo, half mad with rage at his injustice, springs from his tower, forces his way over the tower balcony and this time hangs from the stone cross below.

JEFFRIES' BOYS BAND
GAVE FINE CONCERT

Hutchison, Kansas News Tells of Concert and Dinner—Mr. Jeffries Will Soon Be Homeward Bound.

The Hutchison, Kas., News in a recent issue tells of a concert given by Jeffries' boy band and a dinner given by Mr. Jeffries for the boys. It is very evident that the Band Master Jeffries holds a warm place in the hearts of his Kansas friends just as he does in this old home. Mr. and Mrs. Jeffries and Frank Wolter expect to start for Jacksonville May 1st. The News said:

"The first public concert of the Jeffries' boy band, in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium last night, was a source of real inspiration for the parents and general public who heard the concert."

"The youngsters more than covered themselves and their instructor, C. C. Jeffries with glory. They played like veterans, accepting merited applause and coming back with appropriate encores like veteran musicians."

"Most of the numbers were performed by the band as a whole, although the cornet section and others of the boy musicians played. Mrs. McKinney gave the band a fine bouquet of roses."

"Before the band concert, Mr. Jeffries gave a farewell banquet for his young musicians in the private dining room of the Y. M. C. A. Director Jeffries and Frank Wolter leave soon for their old home at Jacksonville, Ill. There was a fine dinner, which ended with strawberry shortcake, after which the boys responded to toasts. Mr. Jeffries was toastmaster."

"Carroll Friend responded to 'Our Band.' He briefly traced the history of the boys' band from its first organization. He paid tribute to Director Jeffries on behalf of the boys. Burr Smith spoke on 'The Alto versus the Melophone,' and Ralph Miller, who plays a bass horn told of 'The Bass (s) (e) Musician.'"

"Mr. Jeffries told the boys that the real 'base' musician was the one who was jealous of others. 'There is plenty of room at the top, boys, remember that when you become jealous of another musician,' said Mr. Jeffries."

"Perry Greenfield wittily told why he did not play bass. Perry is small and he said that anyone who plays bass should be big enough to carry the horn. Clyde Totten told the future of the band in word pictures of how many of the band would end their musical career. He ended his talk with a glowing tribute to Mr. Jeffries."

"Frank Wolter told of the hard work it took to become a musician and told how he had been practicing since he was eight years of age and was still working hard to become better. He also thanked Mr. Jeffries for the influence he had had upon his musical career."

"Mr. Jeffries then told of several members of his 'kid' band at Jacksonville, and how two of them had become missionaries."

STATE SUNDAY SCHOOL
CONVENTION AT BEARDSTOWN

Plans Laid For Large Religious Gathering May 13-15—Many experts on Sunday School matters to be present.

The fifty-fifth annual convention of the Illinois State Sunday School association will be held at Beardstown, May 13, 14 and 15. A full program has been prepared and the time will be spent in discussion and study of Sunday school methods and work. The spectacular street parade of the delegates held other years will be omitted. The music of the convention will be led by the well-known hymn writer, E. O. Excell. A number of experienced speakers have been secured, including such names as W. C. Pearce, John L. Alexander, Mrs. Mary Foster Bryner, Mrs. Zillah Foster Stevens, F. H. Brigham, state secretary of Wisconsin; W. D. Stem, state secretary of Iowa; Rev. Hugh M. Bannon, James A. Beebe, and a number of others.

George E. Cooke of Chicago is president of the state association. A. H. Mills of Decatur is chairman of the executive committee and the general secretary is Hugh Cork. Upon the latter has fallen most of the work of program building and general planning for the convention.

A series of twelve or more "get-together" banquets have been arranged for by the committee in charge. They will be served by the Ladies' Aid societies of the churches of Beardstown and will afford workers along particular lines the opportunity to hear speeches by specialists in the various phases of Sunday school work. They will be served in the dining halls of the different churches.

The association will be self-entertaining as voted at the convention at Elgin last year. The following rates have been announced by the Beardstown committee: For all delegates, hotels, per day, American plan, $1.50 to $3.00; lodging and breakfast, 85c. European plan, rooms only 50c to 75c. Private homes, lodging and breakfast, one in a room, 50c each. Luncheons, banquets and meals will be served at the churches for dinner and supper.

Delegations should write ahead to the chairman of the entertainment committee, Rev. G. W. Morton, for any desired reservations. The State Sunday school association furnishes county officers with credential cards which can be secured from them by all those intending to go as delegates. These cards can sometimes be obtained from the officers of the local schools.

GREATEST VESSEL IS LAUNCHED

Glasgow, April 22.—The largest vessel in the world, the Cunard liner Aquitania, was successfully launched today at the yards of her builders, John Brown & Co., of Clydebank. Officials of the steamship company and hundreds of spectators were assembled to see the great ship slide down the ways and take her initial plunge in the waters of the Clyde.

The Aquitania will have a displacement slightly in excess of 50,000 tons, or about 10,000 more tonnage than the White Star liner Olympic, the largest vessel now in service. The dimensions of the Aquitania are 900 feet length and 95 feet beam, and she is to have a speed of 23 knots. In her present condition, without engines of boiler, she weighs more than a fully armed battleship. Her interior furnishings and decorations are planned on the most lavish scale and she will in every way merit the description of a floating palace. The latest safety devices will be installed and she will carry life boats sufficient to accommodate all of her passengers and crew.

The ship will have accommodations for 650 first class passengers, 740 second class, and 2,400 steerage passengers. Her average speed of 23 knots an hour in ordinary weather will land her passengers on Monday night at Fishguard on the eastward trip and early Friday in New York and the outward trip from Liverpool. One of the vessel's unique features will be a completely equipped theatre. It is said that a theatrical company with a repertoire of plays will be provided for the ship by a New York manager.

Representatives of the various Sunday schools of the city held a meeting recently at the Y. M. C. A. where the problem of athletics in the Sunday school was thoroughly discussed, after which it was decided to perfect such an organization that would further athletics among the scholars.
